EQUESTRIAN FACILITY

Dear Parent and Child,

Franktown Meadows Equestrian Facility and Breakaway Farms are excited to announce that “Kids and Horses Horsemanship Class” will be returning for its sixth year. This year’s three-day session will go from 9 to 2. The dates are July 10, 11, 12. Boys and girls ages 5 and up will fill their day with a horsemanship lesson, a riding lesson, and lunch. Due to the popular demand of this program, we will be breaking the class up into groups based on age as well as riding ability - last year’s program was organized based on riding ability. We are also increasing the age of students allowed to participate to 16. We see this day as an opportunity for participants of all ages to make friends and bond over their interest in horses.

The sessions will be tailored to the riders’ ability levels, being suitable for beginners as well as experienced riders. Young beginners will play mounted games, while others may learn to post the trot, canter, or jump. More advanced riders may get to jump through gymnastics or over obstacles.

In addition to the participant’s riding lesson, the horsemanship class will address topics including horse care, feeding, grooming and tack care. We believe this fully integrated curriculum is fundamental to allowing students gain a sense of knowledge and responsibility so necessary to riding.

We encourage you to sign up your child today, as space is limited in order to allow for smaller, more personal groups. Your child may participate in as many or as little classes as desired. We believe the 3-session lesson package is most effective in introducing them to the basics of riding and horsemanship.
